

This is the best compromise to the code/no-code issue I have seen.
It both preserves Morse, as an option in testing, and tightens up testing to some degree in other areas.
I feel it deserves serious consideration.